Design Thinking for SMEs/Startups

Program Curriculum

Design Lab UX Fundamentals will cover a wide range of topics with a focus on the following: the process of taking product ideas from concept to launch, including sketching, user testing, and prototyping. It also covers how to drive continuous improvements after launch to keep your users engaged and satisfied.

Is my company a good fit?

This class is geared towards startups and companies that would like to improve their product development and shipping process with design thinking, and to establish a more user-centered process. We encourage teams of 4-6 stakeholders representing a wide range of functions (engineers, product managers, designers) to attend.

Program Agenda

2 sessions of 3 hours over the course of 2 days, and office hours. The workshop is currently conducted completely online.

Day 1:

- Fundamentals of UX
- Understand your users
- Product Goal
- Developing User Journeys

- Iteration time
- Advanced user testing

Office hours:

8 sessions of 1 on 1 (30 min each)

Leadership & Upskill Workshop

How to apply OKRs and get 10x in return

Program Curriculum

OKR stands for Objectives and Key Results. In this program, we will learn about the goal-setting framework that is widely used in businesses and organizations to align teams and individuals with the overall company objectives and measure their progress towards achieving those objectives.

Is my company a good fit?

This class is geared towards startups and companies that would like to improve their efficiency. The Objective and Key Results (OKR) model is a powerful way to express the goals of any company or organization. It can help achieve mission and vision, aid in employee engagement, and bring to the surface the top priorities of a company.

Program Agenda

2 sessions of 2 hours over the course of 2 days, and office hours. The workshop is currently conducted completely online.

Day 1:

- OKR Fundamentals
- Why OKRs?
- What are OKRs?
- Writing Effective OKRs

Day 2:
